To address the issues, the National Policy on Education (NPE, 1986) and the Programme of Action (PoA, 1992) spelt out strategic plans for the policies, advocated the establishment of an independent National accreditation agency. Consequently, the National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC) was established in 1994 as an autonomous institution of the University Grants Commission (UGC) with its Head Quarter in Bengaluru. To improve the quality of education, every institution needs to accreditate their colleges/ institute through the NAAC, Bangaluru.

The problems will be overcomed by systematic submission of regular Annual Quality Assurance Report (AQAR) with retaining the relevant proofs at IQAC. The Universities and colleges should enhance the quality in education, research and extension and acquire generous funding from the various funding agencies. Importance of Internal Quality Assurance Cell to maintain the quality of the education was also discussed. The IQAC of every college should prepare their own road map and academic plan every year. The colleges should implement their plans through IQAC. Every college should appoint a full time ICT experienced senior Professor as a Director of the IQAC. The IQAC of every college should organize conference/workshops every year and arrange brain storming sessions. The discussion in such sessions, should be noted and used for the development of the college. The IQAC should take the issues related to academic and administration and possible solutions should be suggested.
